DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on September 7, 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 6 and 8-10 are rejected, as understood, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Taylor et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,667,664) in view of

Taylor et al. disclose an adjustable drill guide comprised of a guide frame having an arm portion (42) and transverse base portion (36), a rod member (18) connected to the base portion and parallel to the arm portion further having an elongated stem portion and having an aperture (22) extending therethrough, and a guide member (46) including a channel (60) extending therethrough at an angle normal to the longitudinal axis of the arm as well as being moveable and lockable along the length of the arm portion. The lockable mechanism comprises a set screw (72). Taylor et al. also show the arm portion including indicia (78) representing the relative height of the channel with respect to the bone tunnel when the elongated stem portion is inserted inside the bone tunnel. With regard to the statement of intended use and other functional statements, they do not impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over Taylor et al. which is capable of being used as claimed if one so desires to do so. In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Furthermore, the law of anticipation does not require that the reference "teach" what the subject patent teaches, but rather it is only necessary that the claims under attack "read on" something in the reference. Kalman v. Kimberly Clark Corp., 218 USPQ 781 (CCPA 1983). Furthermore, the manner in which a device is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Taylor et al. disclose the claimed invention except for the elongated stem portion having an enlarged head portion. Re et al. teaches the use of an enlarged head portion in order to facilitate tissue graft attachment (Page 3, paragraph 1). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have created Taylor et al. with an enlarged head in view of Re et al., in order to have a device that would be able to be used in an easier manner.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 5 and 7 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-19 allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3 and 7-19 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
